Art Unit: 3742

This is a continuation of 09/768,337 with only one claim, i.e., claim 1 is pending and claims 2-44 have already been cancelled.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claim 1 is rejected under the judicially created doctrine of double patenting over claims 1 or 14 of U. S. Patent No. 6,736,773 since the claims, if allowed, would improperly extend the "right to exclude" already granted in the patent.

The subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the patent and is covered by the patent since the patent and the application are claiming common subject matter, as follows: "a head attached to a distal end of the extension arm wherein the head includes a vision member capable of receiving an image of a surgical site". Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the recited "vision member" in the present application would be in either the inherency or in the equivalence of the recitation of the "vision chip" (in claim 1 of the patent) and claim 1 of the present application is clearly broader in scope than claim 14 of the patenting by omitting "and wherein the vision member includes a vision chip.....external to the endoscope".

Furthermore, there is no apparent reason why applicant was prevented from presenting claims corresponding to those of the instant application during prosecution of the application which matured into a patent. See also MPEP § 804.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by De Faria-Correa et al (US 5,533,496). De Faria-Correa et al shows an endoscopic device

Art Unit: 3742

(Figure 3A) comprising an endoscope body or cannula (27) having proximal and distal ends, an extension arm or elongated endoscope tube (30) passing through a channel (36) in the endoscope body (27) to the distal end of the endoscope body (27), a head (1) attached to a distal end of the extension arm or endoscope tube (30), wherein the head (1) includes a vision member which includes a viewing tip (31), a viewing window (2), and vision chips or lens (column 3, line 65) capable of receiving an image of a surgical site.

Claim 1 is further rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hassler (DE 29716512). Hassler shows an endoscopic device comprising an endoscope 2 having proximal and distal ends, an extension arm 4 passing through a channel in the endoscope to the distal end of the endoscope (as shown in Figure 2), a head attached to a distal end of the extension arm or cable 41, wherein the head includes a vision member or mirror 5 capable of receiving an image of a surgical site.

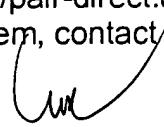

Claim 1 is also rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Thompson (US 5,762,603). Thompson shows an endoscopic device comprising an endoscope body 1 having proximal and distal ends, an extension arm 29 passing through a channel in the endoscope body to the distal end of the endoscope body, a head 5 attached to a distal end of the extension arm 29, wherein the head 5 includes a vision member or image sensor capable of receiving an image of a surgical site.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure: Miyazaki (US 6,184,923), Hori et al (US 5,582,576), De Faria-Correa et al (US 5,448,990), Knighton (US 5,373,840), Oku (US 5,215,077), Chiba (US 4,976,524), and Chikama (US 3,871,365).
